BASE-BALL.

Indianapolis Takes the Last of the Series from Chicago by Hard Batting.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. CHICAGO, Sept. 18.-Indianapolis had things all its own way to-day, and batted out a victory in the final game of the series without any trouble whatever. Getzein pitched a strong and steady game, holding Chicago down to six clean hits, two of which were made in the last inning. Hutchinson, on the other hand, was freely batted, Glasscock's men hitting him, apparently, whenever they chose. Andrews played a pretty fielding game in center, though he had but two fielding chances, and though he had but two fielding chances, and in addition made three hits, one of them a double, in four times at bat, and scored three of the ten runs taken by his side. President Brush occupied a seat in the official box, and looked thoroughly happy over the game his men were putting up. The day was cold and raw, and the crowd did not number over 700 people.

Indianapolis began to score in the opening inning. Hines hit safe to left, and, after Seery had gone out to Van Haltren, reached third on Andrews's single to right, Andrews himself going to second on the throw-in. Denny next flew out to Pfeffer, but Glasscock's hard hit two-bagger to left sent Hines and Andrews across the plate. Buckley followed with a grounder to short, which Williamson threw wild to Anson, permitting Glasscock to score and Buckley to reach second. McGeachy's single to right next scored Buckley, and though Bassett hit safe, Getzein struck out. Another was taken by Indianapolis in the second. With Hines and Seery out, Andrews got first on Williamson's wild throw to Anson, and scored on Denny's single over third base. Glasscock flew out to Duffy. In the fourth they took two more. Getzein hit to the carriages for three-bases, but tried to reach home on the hit, and was rethe carriages for three-bases, but tried to reach home on the hit, and was retired by Farrell, on assists by Dwyer and Pfeffer. Hines then struck out, but Seery hit safe to center, and reached third on Andrews's double over Williamson's head. Both men scored on Denny's single to center, and Glasscock was retired at first.

Chicago scored three in the same inning. With VanHaltren out, Duffy hit safe to right, and reached second when McGeachy muffed Anson's fiv. Pfeffer's single past

Anson was next retired at first, but Pfeffer raised a short fly into right, too near the foul line for McGeachy to get, and reached second. Williamson followed with a fly to right, which McGeachy captured in brilliant style, but before he could recover himself Pfeffer was well toward third. Glasscock stopped a contemplated throw to the plate by calling to McGeachy to throw the ball to second, which was done. Pfeffer, of course, ran home, and then Capt. Glasscock claimed, and justly, too, that Pfeffer had been away off the base when the ball was caught. Lynch, however. the ball was caught. Lynch, however, would not allow the claim, and, as Indianapolis had the game any way, Glasscock

TWO VICTORIES FOR NEW YORK.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 .- The Giants took two games from the Senators to-day. They worked hard for the first one, but the secand was easy. In the first game the two Keefes were pitted against each other, and up to the tenth inning both were equally effective. The features of this game were wonderful running catches by Hoy and Beecher. The former, after running a long distance for the ball, leaped into the air and caught the ball as it was going over his head. After catching it he turned a complete somersault but still held the ball.

its opponents.
Indianapolis is now two games ahead of Pittsburg in games won. The games beginning with to-day will go far toward determining the relative positions of Indianapolis and Pittsburg in the League race. It will be a fight for the sixth place, with the advantages in favor of Indianapolis. The friends of the latter team are more than hopeful of its ability to put Cleveland out of the fifth notch and occupy that position itself at notch and occupy that position itself at the close of the season. From the game Getzein played in Chicago yesterday, in which but six hits were made off his de-livery, it is evident that this favorite pitcher is once more in excellent condition, and from the remaining fifteen games to be played on the home ground great things are expected of the club. Large audiences should greet them in the remaining games, as at present the club is undoubtedly playing the best ball of any club in the League. Too much cannot be said of the good work accomplished by the boys during the trip just finished. Game will be called at 3:50 o'clock.

MRS. HAMILTON'S ASSAULT

Her Attempt Upon the Life of Nurse Donnelly Told by Herself and Husband.

Shocking Story of Domestic Unhappines Brought in Court by the Testimony of the Wounded Nurse and Other Witnesses.

MAY'S LANDING, N. J., Sept. 18 .- The court-room was packed this morning when Mrs. Hamilton's case was called, shortly before noon. A jury being selected, the prosecuting attorney reviewed the details of the assault upon the nurse, who, after Dr. Crosby had described the wounds, took the stand and testified that on the day of the assault she was called to Mrs. Hamilton's room to lock a trunk. She found that Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton had been quareling, Mr. Hamilton's shirt having been torn from his body. Mr. Hamilton asked her to from his body. Mr. Hamilton asked her to go for a policeman, which she did, but was unable to find one. Upon returning to the house she was seized by the throat by Mrs. Hamilton, who called her a vile name. She grappled with Mrs. Hamilton, and demanded a retraction of the epithet, whereupon Mrs. Hamilton threw a bottle at her head. At this juncture Mr. Hamilton grappled with his wife, who broke away from her husband and stabbed her [the nurse.] The knife with which the stabbing was done was identified by the witness, after which she was submitted to a rigid cross-examination, but nothing of witness, after which she was submitted to a rigid cross-examination, but nothing of importance was developed, and a recess until 2 o'clock was taken.

Hamilton was not in court at the opening, but his double friend, Vollmer, was present. The defendant sat up a greater part of the night in the dimly lighted attic. She smoked cigarettes almost continuously, and frequently resorted to her favorite drug, morphine. Mrs. Rupp. of the Noll Cottage, and Mary Ann Donnelly, the wounded woman, all took seats within the rail, Mrs. Hamilton sitting close beside Mr. Perrit. Prosecutor Thompson was on her right. Contrary to general expectation, Mr. Hamilton came into court after the prisener entered and coolly sat down besides Mrs. Rupp, within easy reach of his wife, whom he seemed to entirely ignore. During the questioning Mrs. Hamilton broke into sobs repeatedly, and showed great agitation. Her cheeks were pale and great agitation. Her cheeks were pale and sunken, and she wore an expression of great despondency.

The court re-convened at 2 o'clock, and the cross-examination of nurse Donnelly was resumed. Witness admitted that she was resumed. Witness admitted that she was ordered out of the room by Mrs. Hamilton, and after having thrown Mrs. Hamilton on the bed she did go away, but almost immediately returned to the room, and the altercation began again. The questioning of counsel for the defense was evidently to establish an assault on Mrs. evidently to establish an assault on Mrs. Hamilton by the nurse previous to the cutting. The witness admitted having taken two drinks of brandy that day before the stabbing. Mrs. Donnelly was asked if she had taken the diamonds of Mrs. Hamilton, and indignantly denied it. She had no knowledge of them. Further examination related to the holding of Mrs. Hamilton on the hed and the latter's white wranger. the bed, and the latter's white wrapper, which she had on when the cutting took place, was shown the witness, and she denied that she had torn it when she had hold of Mrs. Hamilton, although the garment was badly torn. Mrs. Donnelly was then allowed to retire. The State then rested its case. Dr. Crosby was recalled for the defense and testified that the nurse was decidedly under the influence of intoxicants when he first saw her. Then Robert Ray Hamilton was called and took the oath. He did not look at his wife, but ten times during the first half of his examination referred to her as the defendant. He started in at once to answer the questions of Captain Perry as to the beginning of the trouble between the nurse and his wife, which began in New York some months ago, when Mrs. Donnelly came home drunk. He stated that both he and his wife discharged the nurse that morning but she refused to go. Then he detailed the quarrel between him and his wife and stated that it was about a yearly sum of money for Mrs. Hamilton, and separation was talked of seriously that morning. Then he related how the nurse returned in a drunken condi-tion and cursed Mrs. Hamilton, and said she had seen her marriage certificate and knew her to be an abandored charac-ter before her marriage; how the nurse was ejected from the room twice, and, returning the third time, and making a desperate rush to get at Mrs. Hamilton, was cut by

The cross-examination was as to the amount of whisky brought up to the room that morning and as to the quarrels between him and the wife. Hamilton was a witness decidedly favorable to the defendant, and gave his testimony coolly, and was not tripped once in cross-examination. Nurse Donnelly, in her description of the fracas which led up to the cutting, said: "Mrs. Hamilton caught me by the hair. I turned around and threw her on the bed, and Mr. Hamilton requested me not to strike her, which I did not do. Mr. Hamilton was standing in the door of his room. She then assaulted me with a whisky bottle, and but for the timely interference of that Mr. Hamilton's coat was torn down the back. They were clinched, and I was standing near by. She swayed towards me and struck me with the knife, cutting me in the abdomen and allowing the intestines to come through. I called to Mr. Hamilton: 'Look, she has cut me.'"

Prosecutor Thompson exhibited a pair of Mr. Hamilton's trousers bearing signs of having been cut with a sharp instrument on the leg, and the nurse immediately identified them.

On cross-examination by Counsellor Perry, the nurse said she left her husband about a year ago. The witness was very about a year ago. The witness was very saucy in her answers to the attorney.

Mr. Hamilton, in testifying, said that the trouble between the defendant and the nurse began in New York. On the morning the affray occurred the nurse had been drinking, and used abusive language to the detendant. Mrs. Donnelly came into the room about 6 o'clock in the morning. Witness was sitting on the bed with a sheet wrapped around him, as Mrs. Hamilton had torn his underclothing during a ton had torn his underclothing during a domestic quarrel. Mrs. Hamilton struck him with a parasol, and broke it over his shoulder. There had been trouble about his purchasing tickets for New York the previous evening, Mrs. Hamilton not wanting to go. In the morning this was reversed. Witness wanted to stay in Atlantic City. It was then that his night clothes were torn, and also that his night clothes were torn, and also the coat which was lying on the bed, the defendant ripping it during her fit of anger. Later the nurse came into the room with two letters, giving witness one and retaining the other. This she refused to give up, and the defendant told her she was discharged. Mrs. Donnelly said she would not go, and witness told her she must. Witness said there had been considerable argument between the defendant and himself that morning, relative to a separation and an annual allowance for her. Witness said he had agreed to give her $5,000 a year, but she wanted more.

Mr. Hamilton then related the manner in Mr. Hamilton then related the manner in

Mr. Hamilton then related the manner in which the quarrel started between Mrs. Donnelly and defendant. He said the knife used had been in his possession four or tive years. When the row first began he tried to put the nurse out of the room, and was assisted by Mrs. Rupp, who had entered in the meantime, and who took the baby, which had been sitting on the floor, to a place of safety. Witness succeeded in getting the nurse out of the room, but she came rushing back, exclaiming, "Let me at her." and calling the defendant foul her," and calling the defendant foul names. They clinched, both women having their fingers in each other's mouths. The nurse struck Mrs. Hamilton with her fist, and forced her back on the bed where the knife was lying, having been placed there while the trunks were being packed. It was then that the cutting was done. Witness said he had tried to lock the door in the first place to keep the nurse, who appeared infuriated, out of the room, but he could not find the key.

Ex-County Physician Ingersoll, who has been attending Mrs. Hamilton during her confinement in the jail here, followed Mr. Hamilton on the witness stand. He testi-fied to marks of violence found upon her

Mrs. Elizabeth Rupp, the proprietor of the Nool cottage, was then placed upon the stand. She was present when Mrs. Hamil-ton attempted to assault the nurse with an infant's bath-tub. Mrs. Hamilton made the remark in her presence, "Ray Hamilton, you will have me sent to the gallows

When Counsellor Perry called Mrs. Evangeline Hamilton to the stand she walked firmly and had ceased weeping. After seating herself she nervously twisted a fan which she carried. She related herstory in a halting manner. Robert Ray Hamilton covered his face with his hands as if in which she carried. She related herstory in a halting manner. Robert Ray Hamilton covered his face with his hands as if in dread of the revelations about to be made of domestic infelicities. Mrs. Hamilton sat directly in front of the jury, facing Judge Reed. She stated that the nurse was of a quarrelsome nature, and, on the morning the affray occurred, remarked that she was tired of seeing me at that poor devil all the time, meaning Mr. Hamilton. Witness was afraid to call her life her own during the time Mrs. Donnelly was in her employ. Mr. Hamilton upheld her, the witness said, which only tended to make matters worse. "I often spoke to her," witness continued, "about her neglect of my baby. She was in the habit of leaving it at home and going out to drink. Her abusive language was more than I could stand, and I discharged her. I had given her telegrams to send to Ray's father, asking him to come down and try to settle amicably the differences existing between us, and she refused to send them. When the trouble began, Mary kicked me in the knees, and pulled me out of the chair by the hair. Ray put her out of the com, but she rushed back and tore my wrapper and chemise." Mrs. Hamilton said she was afraid of her life, and her fears were intensified by the stories told by the nurse of how she had assaulted people, citing one instance in which the woman had told how she cut her husband's face with a hatchet. Witness said during the struggle the nurse picked up a whisky bottle and tried to hit her with it over her husband's shoulder. Mrs. Hamilton then related how the nurse threw her on the bed. The nurse was leaning over witness, and her knee was pressing on the witness' stomach. She said she picked up the knife from the bed, and, reaching around her husband, who was trying to separate them, she struck at her assailant in self-defense. She did not think she had cut her, and did not know of the woman's injuries until the officers came to arrest her. The nurse had previously made threats against her life.

Prosecutor

The nurse had previously made threats against her life.

Prosecutor Thompson then took the witness in hand, and made the most searching inquiries into her past life and career. Under oath she stated that she met Robert Ray Hamilton about four or five years ago. She was not very certain as to places and dates, and quickly showed signs of displeasure at being questioned as to her past life. Her counsel's objections were all overruled by the court; and witness had to submit to the ordeal with a long-drawn sigh. submit to the ordeal with a long-drawn sigh. was married to Mr. Hamilton last January in Paterson, N. J. Her child was three months old when she first employed Mary Ann Donnelly as wet nurse. When asked if the child was born in Pennsylvania witness refused to answer and appealed to the protection of her counsel, who entered objection, but was overruled, and the question was only withdrawn when Mrs. Hamilton stated to the court that to answer the question would be incriminating to her. Again did she look up to the court appealingly when Prosecutor Thompson asked:

"Are you the mother of that child?"

This question was withdrawn under the same ruling, but the incident clearly made an impression upon the jury. Witness acknowledged that, in a fit of anger, she had torn her husband's coat, and that she had demanded more than an allowance of $5,000 per year from her husband, and that they had quarreled about it. Mrs. Hamilson stepped from the stand and sank into an arm-chair and buried her face in her handkerchief as if weeping. While she was giving her testimony the husband sat and stared at her.

The State rested, and, counsellor Perry pleading illness, the court adjourned till to-morrow. Mrs. Hamilton was removed to her attic in the prison. There exists but little doubt among the local bar that Mrs. Hamilton will be convicted and sentenced, but it is thought she will be dealt with leniently.

NICKLE PLATED. Wonderful Wood Heater.

It is the Poor Man's Friend! The Rich Man's Economizer! A BASE BURNER in the fullest meaning of the term. Retains fire from 12 to 48 hours. It consumes equally well all kinds of wood, rough, green or dry. Two or three cerds of four-foot wood cut oace in two is sufficient for an ordinary winter. It consumes its own ashes, throws no sparks to fire your building, but retains the heat in the room. It is clean, no dirt, gas or dust to annoy. Requires no kindling of mornings, always having plenty of fire and a warm room. It is as well adapted for school or office rooms as for the family. As a fact, it is the grandest stove of the age, and any one having used this stove cannot be induced to do without it. Corners on Coal have no no effect on the OWEN STOVE. If not on sale at your trading place, order direct from me. Laberal discount to the trade. I will deliver this stove at any freight depot in the United States. freight added.
